China’s environmental challenge and eco-civilisation: a multidisciplinary approach to the Anthropocene
The 2019 Graduate Workshop on China in the Urban Age

The University of Sydney is organising the inaugural graduate workshop of the China Studies Centre’s recently launched multidisciplinary research program on China in the Urban Age. The workshop is devoted to China’s environmental challenges and the concept of eco-civilisation. Including any branch of the sciences, humanities and social sciences with an interest in sustainability, the workshop aims to foster a multidisciplinary approach to the Anthropocene in China. This is an initiative of the China Studies Centre and the Planetary Health Platform.

Confirmed speakers
Tony Capon Professor of Planetary Health, University of Sydney
Peng Gong Professor and Chair, Department of Earth System Science, Tsinghua University; Professor Emeritus, University of California Berkeley
Olivier Krischer Art historian, Deputy director of the China Studies Centre, University of Sydney
Pierre Landry Professor of Government and Public administration, Director of the University Service Centre, Chinese University of Hong Kong
Selina Lo Senior global health professional, Consulting editor for The Lancet; CEO of Doctors for the Environment Australia
Anna Lora-Wainwright Professor, School of Geography and Environment, University of Oxford
Sarah Swider Associate Professor of Sociology, University of Copenhagen
Luigi Tomba Professor of Chinese Politics, Director of the China Studies Centre, University of Sydney
Emily Yeh Professor of Geography, University of Colorado