HOW TO GET INVOLVED

Both audience and presenters will join the conference virtually through the new ICUR App, where you can watch, participate, interact and ask questions without leaving your home.

This year, no matter which time zone you live in, you will have access to any panel that is taking place while you are logged in to the mobile App or desktop version.

The App is available now to download on both mobile and desktop devices via the Apple and Google Play stores, with conference content made available in September. Desktop version: <https://icur2020.entegyapp.com.au/>.

Visit www.icurportal.com to register as an audience member.

We hope to see you at #ICUR2020!
